Coaching In Leadership

Join us for a highly experiential and practical workshop that will help leaders at all levels to develop the relational and conversational competencies that support their staff and as a result their organizations to flourish in rapidly changing times. This workshop will leave participants with skills and practices that they can apply immediately after the workshop and build relationships with other participants in the workshop which can support their continued development and practice.

The workshop is being presented by Michelle Cooper and Amy Hunter from Courage Group International. Michelle and Amy are both ICF certified coaches as well as Registered Nurses who have both done work previously with Public Health Units.
